

It takes such strength
Not to give in
Too much gravity calls me down
Yet my eyes know not to go
This terrible weight
A silky white holding
Everything I'm trying to avoid is everything I want to have
It could all start rebirth if I grabbed that silly despot
So bad I want to turn, and yes
I will
What's so bad, that's fighting within
To touch her, to stimulate this hurting hole
For now I know and yet unknown
This evil weight I love so dear
Reminds me not to die
Deaf to suffering calling
Too loud to ignore