

I can't deal with people
I can't deal with myself around people
There's just too much
Too much emotion
I'd rather be away from the crowds
Out where there's no judgment
Out where I can't hear critique
And the feelings of shame and embarrassment are not triggered
Is this a place?
An actual place?
I'd go there this very second if I could
But my brain travels with me