

I don't know what it is
Or why I am this way
It all seems to fall apart in this moment I call today
When conflict roars
The rainbow feels so far away
I cannot believe it from this spot I stay
On land like a fish
Whose need is the water
Who's desperate to fly
Yet has no wings to speak of
And pains to kill the dove

This
I thought
I was above

Like a penguin dressed
In a devaluing suit
These words don't scare spiders
They're just words like moot
I think I know what I'd see from above
But why must I get that high
To feel the rainbow from inside
I will not drown in what I cannot take
I pace myself from the other side of the window
My eyes as large as the hole I must fill
And love like a widow
