

She came to the king and asked him of his ways
But she had not learned that what makes a king a king
Is the ability to build a fence around the ignorant
Yet the king told the girl that she had much to learn
And to stay on her route
So she would leave confused
As many after her would
But she soon learned
That he was not just a king
No regular king would say such a thing
This man knew when to use his power
Clearly the mark of a true leader